The question which seems to concern this country particularly is how to obtain the most luxuries with the least work. Some of the five-hours-a-day fellows have fifteen hours-a-day wives, which help out a good deal in it.

One of our town girls recently sent twenty-five cents for a receipt to promote our "pros-va beauty." She received the following reply: "Blind your mother and stay home nights."

We are pleased to note an increasing desire on the part of our readers to secure at the first possible moment a copy of this paper and some call at the office and get and get a copy as it falls fresh from the press. The reason is we publish all the news all the time. We want you to help us make it still better by notifying us of the death, marriage or important transactions in which anyone from this district is concerned.

A letter from Geo. Hymers of Victoria, B.C., inquiring as to what terms Bow Island would give a manufacturer's agent on the coast, was referred to the chairman and secretary, who were requested to give the writer every encouragement.

The meeting then terminated.

The Navy.

Combating some arguments offered by William Jennings Bryan, New York Life pays the following whole hearted tribute to the British Navy:

If we are to think as neutrals, mindfully of our own immediate interests (which is not at all the way most of us are thinking) we will do well to think a little of the British sea power which Germany's submarine activities are directed to destroying. But, believe us, we want it destroyed! Theoretically it is in our right that Britannia should rule the waves than that Germany should be the world's bully about, but practically Britannia and her blessed navy are at this moment the masters of the freedom of the nations, and but for them Germany would not be at these pains to write notes to us, but would do as she liked with no more concern for our views than she had for Belgium's. For a generation Britannia has been the great marine policeman. As trading neutrals we don't want her efficiency in that employment to be too much impaired until there is in sight a competent substitute to do for us and others what she has been doing. Looking off from any high point on this continent, the great operating check to German world-domination is seen to be British sea power. If Germany, by provision of new sears of paper not to be torn up until she gets ready, could make the seas safe for trade, war or no war, where would Freedon, or any other deserving party, look for help the next time Germany has a brain-storm?

District News

Windy Ridge.

A regular meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the L.O.O.F. hall on Friday evening last.

In the absence of the President, P. W. Brews occupied the chair.

After the reading of the correspondence by the Secretary (R. S. Beattie), the first business to occupy the attention of the members was the question of holding an agricultural fair this year in Bow Island.

This matter had been left at a previous meeting to the executive committee upon, who at a subsequent meeting discussed and thoroughly approved of the idea.

It now remained with the Board to work out the details and devise some method of raising sufficient money to pay the necessary expenses connected with the fair.

The chairman thought they would require about $250. Of this amount, however, the larger portion could be taken from the sports fund, in which they still retained a respectable balance.

He stated that the executive committee it would be advisable to hold the fair at the public park and arrange to have one or two large tents for the exhibits.

After the matter had been discussed and the opinion of the members obtained relative to certain matters in connection, it was moved that the executive be asked to interview the business men of the town and endeavor to find out what support could be given.

The secretary reported that he had attended a meeting at Lethbridge the previous evening, the object of which was to petition the provincial government to establish an agricultural school in Southern Alberta.

A letter from Geo. Hymers of Victoria, B.C., inquiring as to what terms Bow Island would give a manufacturer's agent on the coast, was referred to the chairman and secretary, who were requested to give the writer every encouragement.

The meeting then terminated.

Indians Are Better Off In Canada Than U. S.

Reserves Administered More Economically, Yet More Efficiently

According to a report received by Mr. Charles Cannell Scott, deputy minister of Indian Affairs, the standings of the Indian commissions of the United States as to their recent investigations show that the Indian wards of the government are far better off in Canada than in the United States Indian department.

Under the Indian Act, says the report, 83,771 Indian reserves, 5,000 of reserves and 56,000 halfbreeds, make up 1,000,000 acres, or about half the total Indian population of the United States. Notwithstanding the greater cost of administration, the larger relative cost of administration in the United States is due to a general searchlight, while in Canada, the cost of Indian administration in the reserves, as compared with about $40 in the United States, and, despite the strict supervision of Indians, undoubtedly closer supervision of Indians.

The Indian in Canada earns $2 to every $1 earned by the tribesmen in the United States, and there are two stenographers employed in the entire Indian field service of Canada, and one in the United States, while 900 stenographers and clerks in the United States serve 1,000 Indians.

The report continues that the reserves are a phuse unknown in Indian affairs, and are not so easily guarded in Indian land. The explanation is simple. The Indian reserves are simple. The Indian reserves are not allotted. An Indian does not have title to an individual tract of land, but he has been granted a right to it until he has become entitled to it under the Indian Act, its long and tedious process. He is located on such land as he is able and willing to work, and his right to the right adheres only so long as he makes use of the land.

In the suppression of the liquor traffic, the report notes that the Canadian law is much more stringent and much more economical than that in the United States. The Canadian law is strict, but it is not arbitrary. In its scope every possible sort of intoxicating or enlivening or derivative drink, in enforcement is safe and prompt.

The British Idea

Lord Bryce declares, as does Mr. Lovell Bryce, that far from the war having been a success, it has been the jeopardizing of his commercial interests. The British idea is, and always has been, to dominate world trade, and the more commerce other nations engage in the more there will be for the British to dominate. Belgian neutrality and Germany's influence in France are the only reasons for Britain declaring war. Never before, declares Lord Bryce, has there been so much been so united upon any issue as this one. The nation is suffering as she has never suffered, but she would never dream that she would be called upon to suffer, but had, and the rich and poor are all toiling in high gear, in stern endeavor—Victoria Collet.

Britain's Big Military Camps

From the first day of the war, the largest military camps in the world, yet sixty-four years ago it was no more than a small village.

It wasn't until 1832, indeed that Aldershot became its existence. At the time, Carl Harries, then in command-in-chief of the army, and through him those who were to follow, decided men were housed for the purpose of training troops. The first lot of troops consisted of four officers and 100 men.

From those few weeks, which began the great military camp, the permanent barracks, military hospitals, and training centers of all kinds of soldiers. From 1832 to 1857 over a million pounds were spent in the building of what was making it a suitable headquarters of the British army.

One remarkable result of the growth of the camp at Aldershot was the fact that it became the largest and most complete of all kinds of military camps. From 1852 the population was just over 500, it is now over 30,000, exceeding 100,000.

Edison Invents 3,000,000 Candle Power Light

Most Powerful Portable Searchlight Yet Made—Result of Big Fire

Profiting by an experience of fire in the Edison Works on December 9, 1914, Thomas A. Edison has invented a portable searchlight which can be taken to his head, we say "Step on," and the beam of light is directed on the side from where it is to move, and increase the weight of the power. Continuous treatment in this way will lead to understand the way to stop over.

In this sort of training, we must proceed with gentle kindness, always giving our commands. In the action to illustrate what you want him to do, and he will learn the lesson. The horse is never hard. Some drivers have a tendency to pull the horse, and continuously clutching at their team to induce it to go faster, and sometimes it is hard to stop them.

The horse becomes accustomed to this clutching as readily as they do to the wagon, and pay no attention to either.

YOU WANT GOOD PRINTING

HIGH-CLASS PRINTING can only be executed in offices where there is first-class machinery and the most modern type. The Review has recently installed an entirely new series of type, bringing the office equipment to a point where it can successfully compete with the larger establishments in other places. The Bay Island Review now has a plant that is a credit to the town in which it is established and it is no exaggeration to say that its equal cannot be found in no other town (of a similar size to ours) in Alberta.

TELEPHONE IS ALLY OF ALL ARMIES

Photos by American Press Association.

1.—German wireless in the field. 2.—German headquarters scene, telephoning orders to trenches. 3.—German field telephone. 4.—Telephone squad in the field. 5.—Canadian telephone squad. 6.—A German artillery officer telephoning result of fire to battery. 7.—German signal corps, with apparatus, in the field.

THIS is one ally that serves heroism and faithful service through great crisis or in the face of peril; as a weapon in the fierce hours of battle. Sun also in the weary hours of the watchless night; it is the silent friend of lonely outposts.

The telephone, which has become an instrument in war, says the Telephone Review, is typical of the multitude of the army's achievements and its productive accomplishments of peace. Indeed, a host of peaceful counterparts may be found in the telephone's history of the service. Thus we have the telephone as a source of amusement and diversion; as the instrument of Mars gratified it is to read of the incidents told the following story of a British officer in Flanders:

"The officer spends lonely hours through the windmill in charge of the telephone exchange from which the batteries are sent to him. He grows pale and thin, and, as in the terrible blunder at Neuve Chapelle, the lack of telephone communication between the gun pits pities his loneliness and invents a scheme to cheer him up, so after the gunners had been shelled he puts the receiver to his ears and listens to a Tyrolean ballad sung by an orderly who had remained in the hospital. The gunners had remained in their posts. Prince Joschin, one of the kaiser's sons, presented the heroine with a silver watch and "words of lively recognition."

Our telephone heroes who remain behind the scenes, while they grow pale, the more below may not receive commendation from king or Kaiser or kaiser.

When the Russians made an incursion into the town of Memel, in East Prussia, in the sun on the top of Mount Blidenburg ran up the Memel postoffice after receiving news of the invasion. The postmaster, a man of 70, who answered his call "his station," was still there when she had been besieged and had remained in them posted.

Some of the incidents told in the dispatches show that the "Hello girls" in SAN MARINO, which literally came on to the map when it entered the war on the side of the Central Powers, is a small state. It really is rarely to be found on any map, except the largest maps of Europe, and even then it is often omitted. For instance, yet it is the oldest existing republic as well as the smallest.

San Marino, which has

the year 386, is the sun on the top of Mount Blidenburg, in the center of the sea.

Its entire area is but thirty-three square miles, and its population 12,000.

When it promised to aid its friend

Italy, "to the last man" San Marino sent 1,000 men, and the Italian army counted thirty-six officers and 950 men.

Nominally the republic of San Marino entered the war on the side of the Central Powers since 1866.

This is due to its smallness, for the treaty of peace which gave the country to Italy was signed between that country and Prussia and Austria, made no mention of the republic.

It declared herself for Italy in July, 1915, and joined the Allies in the Trentino west of Trent and threatened to besiege the city when Victor Emmanuel III, King of Italy, was born in 1867.

A new treaty of friendship with Italy was concluded June 25, 1907, and San Marino has been a member ever since.

A question of some importance to this district that arose at the last meeting of the Bow Island Board of Trade was with reference to holding this year in Bow Island an Agricultural Fair. That the suggestion met with the approval of the members and received the active co-operation of those executive shows that the Board of Trade is keenly alive to the source of its bread and butter. Time was, and that only a short time ago, when the majority of us were centring our energy and attention (and some of us cash) upon getting industries here. That period, however, is gone, and we all realise that to put Bow Island upon a sure and firm foundation we've got to depend upon ourselves and our own immediate resources. One of our most valuable assets, and the one that will give us the greatest returns for our outlay of energy and attention, is the productiveness of the surrounding country. That this is no mean asset may be realised by a glance over the neighboring farm lands. The idea, then, of holding an Agricultural Fair is a good one. Passing over the fact that it will cement and bind closer together the relations between town and country, it will also illustrate and advertise our farm products, initiate a movement in friendly rivalry between the growers, and create a keener desire on the part of those who now display interest in the production of certain fruits, vegetables and grains.

If by any work of the Board of Trade the interest of our farmers in the above products can be fostered and encouraged, then it is up to every individual member to give his support and active assistance.

The question of tree planting should be one of interest to every citizen of Bow Island. From a practical if not sentimental standpoint. We all know that a residence with a few trees surrounding enhances its value greatly, and is a great attraction to a prospective purchaser. In addition to this fact, trees help to beautify a town, and with the other inducements that Bow Island has to offer would be a most valuable acquisition to the little burg. The Review would like to see a movement set foot to interest every householder in this subject. We are assured that trees in any quantity may be obtained at certain spots along the river banks north of town, and a concerted movement in this direction might be the means of getting every citizen to devote a little of his spare time in helping to beautify his property and the surroundings. So sure are we of this, that if the citizens of Bow Island would just drop into our office some time (in squads of not more than nine or ten) and signify his or her desire of joining the "Town Beautifying League" the Review will, in due season, guarantee to procure the trees and furnish them to the residents free of cost.

Local & General.

Hullo, Central! Congratulations. Miss Lucille Folie is visiting at Lethbridge this week.

Mrs. F. W. Brown is visiting friends in Calgary this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Arbster returned to Bow Island on Monday.

E. W. Luckhardt of Taber was a visitor here over Wednesday night.

Birth—On Thursday, August 8th, the wife of R. L. Stens of a daughter.

W. A. Bateman and A. F. Weitz were visitors at Lethbridge last week end.

How we expect to handle the crop this year in Bow Island with only three elevators is a problem too knotty for us to solve.

W. Knauss and W. Howe of Foremost arrived in town on Wednesday afternoon and proceeded on the night train to Medicine Hat.

Miss Anna Mills received last week from Saskatchewan, notification that she had passed her entrance examination with hours.

A car of binder twine arrived this week for the Bow Island Hardware Co., another was being scheduled to arrive this at an early date.

B. L. Jamieson, who has been taking a course of study at the Optical College, Calgary, returned home on Monday. Read his advt. in this issue.

Foremost is likely to have six elevators this year. Four are already completed, and we are informed that arrangements are now under way to build the others.

A meeting of the local branch of the Red Cross Society will be held at the Clergy House this afternoon at four o'clock. All members and their friends are cordially invited.

R. S. Beattie and Guy Bowen of Malah represented Bow Island at the meeting of the Southern Alberta Board of Trade in Lethbridge last week.

Many more towns die for want of confidence on the part of the business men and lack of public spirit, than from opposition of neighboring towns and adverse surroundings. Correct.

We are glad to welcome this week our return to Bow Island of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Collard and family from Saskatchewan, who have temporarily taken up their residence in the Housing bungalow on Broadway. Mr. Collard will take over the management here of the Ogilvie elevators.

Great Hall, second vice president of the C.P.R. and general manager of western lines, has been inspecting this week the unclaimed portion of the Lethbridge-Weyburn line east of Foremost. We hear that he has intimated to some that at least twenty five miles of new track will be laid, completing the line to Estevan.

A special service of intercession was held at All Saints' church on Wednesday morning at 11 a.m. this day being the anniversary of the destruction of Magdeburg, Germany. The service was conducted by those held at a similar hour throughout the British Empire and was festive in nature, asking the aid of Almighty God for ultimate victory in the cause which British people consider just and righteous.

It is reported that the minister of Agriculture has received warnings of an organized effort on the part of some pro-German residents for a wholesale plan of destruction of Southern Alberta's bumper crop. We don't believe it. Some of them may be crazy enough to suggest it, but to attempt it would result in their meeting with such a hot reception from the farmers that the trenches in Flanders would be a picnic in comparison.

These promises to be a heavy shadow in Bow Island this fall and winter. With the summer only just over the town is already filled up, a very usual occurrence at this time of the year. The situation, however, will be relieved somewhat by the removal of several houses which are now in the country unoccupied. Even with the addition the situation will not be satisfactorily settled unless more houses are erected, for there are quite a few of our country friends who are thinking of living in town for the winter.

This Refers To You.

If you want your town to improve, improve it. If you want to make your town itly, make it. Don't go to sleep, get up and work for it. Push. Get up, Advertise it. Talk about it. Push. Get talk favorable. If you have any property, improve it. Paint your houses, clean up your back yards. Make sure soundings pleasant, and you will feel better, and your property will be worth more money in the market. If you are doing reasonably well advise your far-away friend to come and invest near you. Work steadily, for your place and home interests. Trade at home, help your home dealers. Keep your money at home as much as possible; it is likely to keep you in revenue. Public improvements is investment that pays. Don't waste your time over some noisy neighborhood quarrel and hold back your air from some good cause through spite but work for some good and you will find yourself benefitted. Get at it. Wake up. Rustle. There is no time to be lost, and every little helps. Toot your horn and tool it loud.

A special service of intercession was held at All Saints' church on Wednesday morning at 11 a.m. this day being the anniversary of the destruction of Magdeburg, Germany. The service was conducted by those held at a similar hour throughout the British Empire and was festive in nature, asking the aid of Almighty God for ultimate victory in the cause which British people consider just and righteous.

It is reported that the minister of Agriculture has received warnings of an organized effort on the part of some pro-German residents for a wholesale plan of destruction of Southern Alberta's bumper crop. We don't believe it. Some of them may be crazy enough to suggest it, but to attempt it would result in their meeting with such a hot reception from the farmers that the trenches in Flanders would be a picnic in comparison.

These promises to be a heavy shadow in Bow Island this fall and winter. With the summer only just over the town is already filled up, a very usual occurrence at this time of the year. The situation, however, will be relieved somewhat by the removal of several houses which are now in the country unoccupied. Even with the addition the situation will not be satisfactorily settled unless more houses are erected, for there are quite a few of our country friends who are thinking of living in town for the winter.

How we expect to handle the crop this year in Bow Island with only three elevators is a problem too knotty for us to solve.

W. Knauss and W. Howe of Foremost arrived in town on Wednesday afternoon and proceeded on the night train to Medicine Hat.

Miss Anna Mills received last week from Saskatchewan, notification that she had passed her entrance examination with hours.

A car of binder twine arrived this week for the Bow Island Hardware Co., another was being scheduled to arrive this at an early date.

B. L. Jamieson, who has been taking a course of study at the Optical College, Calgary, returned home on Monday. Read his advt. in this issue.

Foremost is likely to have six elevators this year. Four are already completed, and we are informed that arrangements are now under way to build the others.

A meeting of the local branch of the Red Cross Society will be held at the Clergy House this afternoon at four o'clock. All members and their friends are cordially invited.

R. S. Beattie and Guy Bowen of Malah represented Bow Island at the meeting of the Southern Alberta Board of Trade in Lethbridge last week.

Many more towns die for want of confidence on the part of the business men and lack of public spirit, than from opposition of neighboring towns and adverse surroundings. Correct.

We are glad to welcome this week our return to Bow Island of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Collard and family from Saskatchewan, who have temporarily taken up their residence in the Housing bungalow on Broadway. Mr. Collard will take over the management here of the Ogilvie elevators.

Great Hall, second vice president of the C.P.R. and general manager of western lines, has been inspecting this week the unclaimed portion of the Lethbridge-Weyburn line east of Foremost. We hear that he has intimated to some that at least twenty five miles of new track will be laid, completing the line to Estevan.
